Here we go again! Last fall the Granville Historical Society remembered Granville in the 1950's. On March 9th at 7 p.m. we will be hosting a continuation of that same theme with a program "Recalling 1960's Granville".

The program will take place in the Robinson Research Center with the option to also join us via Zoom. An email will be sent the week of the event, providing link.

The Sixties reflected significant change. Whether you talk about music, sports, politics, technology or fashion and pop culture, as Bob Dylan so poetically wrote, "The Times They Are A-Changin'"

Once again, we will ask the question: How did all that translate to life in Granville? What stores did the panelists frequent and how did they rate the churches, restaurants and other institutions of that decade?

This program will be another interactive look back at growing up in Granville in the 1960's. With a panel of lifelong residents to activate and explore childhood memories, we encourage anyone who grew up in Granville in the 1960's to come and share your memories! Invite your friends, neighbors, spouses, and your children to join. We want to hear your stories and maybe your childhood secrets and to share with our community what it was like in "the olden days"!

Seeking 20th Century Ephemera, Photos & Artifacts

The Archives and Collections Committees are seeking documents and memorabilia from all of Granville's history, but especially from the 20th century. If you have items that might be of interest to those who staff the two committees, please contact Archivist Theresa Overholser, Collections Manager Cynthia Cort, or Accessions Chair Sam Schnaidt.

What's Happening Now

Even though the museum is dark all winter, it continues to be full of activities. Our volunteers in Collections and Archives work weekly to expand and catalog the Society's holdings. In a more physical way, the Exhibits Committee, Janet Procida and Lyn Overholser, & Committee Chair Erik Yassenoff are preparing our space with new exhibits.

Also, Volunteer Chair, Lynn Overholser is working on the 2022 schedule and recruiting new volunteers. Let us know if you are interested in volunteering.
